Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Mr. Knoche:

I take this opportunity to extend to you the many thanks, from the members of the National Military Intelligence Association for your timely and informative views at our last meeting. Your comments underscored the basic concepts of our organization and certainly provided the strongest motivation for us to continue in our efforts, in as many ways as possible, to strength the intelligence community from within, and appropriately inform our unknowledgeable critics when possible.

Again, on behalf of our President, Cal Carnes, and the other members of the NMIA, please accept my most sincere thanks for taking the time from your busy schedule to share with us the views from the top.

POTOMAC CHAPTER
NATIONAL MILITARY INTELLIGENCE ASSOCIATION

The Potomac Chapter of the National Military Intelligence Association (NMIA) was formed on 6 May 1976. The NMIA is a professional organization composed of individuals interested in the diverse activities of military intelligence. NMIA chapters constitute the broad operating base of the Association, and are designed to transmit the NMIA message at the local level.

The Potomac Chapter covers the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, including the Virginia and Maryland suburbs and provides individuals of similar backgrounds and interests a unique opportunity to meet together socially and professionally. With the concentration of intelligence organizations and activities in the Washington, D.C. area, the Potomac Chapter has the potential of becoming the largest and most active unit in the NMIA.

The Potomac Chapter is continuing its expanded membership drive. All those interested in furthering the advancement of military intelligence are encouraged to apply for chapter and national membership.

Annual NMIA membership dues are $6.00 which include a subscription to the MI Magazine, the only U.S. professional military intelligence journal. Separate newsletters published by the NMIA and the Potomac Chapter keep members informed of current activities. It is anticipated that additional chapter dues will be levied on the membership.
